Snow, Rain, Wind, Sand Storms Bother America

PACIFIC COAST, HOWEVER, HAS BLISTERING HEAT

HIGHEST SPRING MARKS IN 20 YEARS REGISTERED ON WEST COAST

WEATHER BUREAU FACES ONE OF MOST PUZZLING OUTLOOKS IN YEARS

Chicago, May 20.—(U.P.)—Snow, rain and sand storms were reported in some sections of North America today at the same time that a blistering heat wave was driving temperatures along the Pacific coast to the highest spring marks in 20 years.

Examples of the contrasting extremes which presented weather bureau with one of the most puzzling general outlooks in years were:

California—Temperatures as high as 92.

Chicago—Two inches of rainfall.

Missouri—Floods.

Southern California—Sand storms.

Winnipeg—Snow.

Trinidad, Colo.—Snow.

Denver—Snow.

Lebanon, Ind.—Wind storms.

With the exception of California, indications today were that conditions rapidly were returning to normal.

A storm area which for two days had hovered over the Great Lakes region was traveling eastward but was believed spending itself as it moved along.

At Winnipeg, yesterday's snow storm became a blizzard. Most of the snow melted quickly, but high winds tossed it about as it fell and created a typical mid-winter scene.

The snowfall there, like the rain in midwestern states, was welcome to farmers whose fields still were lacking in moisture because of last year's droughts.

Denver had its second day of snow. Temperatures were low but not low enough to damage crops and the moisture was considered beneficial.

In parts of the city almost an inch of snow completely blotted from sight the green grass and dandelions that that sprung to life during the previous summer-like days.

In Los Angeles the heat wave was attributed partly to hot winds which swept off the Mojave Desert, bringing showers of sand that halted traffic and damaged citrus crops. A $30,000 tent which was to have housed the orange show at Anaheim was blown down.

In the southwest, cooler weather with fair skies prevailed today after a period of excessive heat, thunder-showers, wind and hail. Temperatures dropped precipitately. Frost was forecast for parts of Kansas.

Streams overflowed in Missouri from heavy rains continuing since the weekend. Contrary Creek in the northwest part of the state lived up to its name, refused to stay within its banks and threatened to flood adjacent farms.

Oklahoma had cloudbursts. Wind and hail swept Texas, followed by thunderstorms.

In San Francisco, where the mercury reached 90 yesterday, the excessive heat was blamed for numerous fires both inside and outside the city limits. A serious brush fire threatened East Oakland and Mills College and the Oakland Zoo were menaced by flames. More than 1,500 men fought fires in various parts of the state.

At Lebanon, Ind., a violent wind and rain storm struck late yesterday, doing considerable damage to farm buildings and trees.

Eastern states experienced a moderate warm wave yesterday, but temperatures fell and skies became cloudy today as the storm area moved eastward from the lakes. Temperatures along the east coast yesterday ranged from 80 to 85 but were lower today.

New Attempt at Delay by Bishop Cannon is Frowned Upon

Washington, May 20.—(U.P.)—A new attempt by Bishop James J. Cannon, Jr., Methodist Episcopal church, south, to delay the senate investigation of his 1928 political activities has been frowned upon by Chairman Nye of the senate committee.

Nye has told Cannon that to delay hearings until Sept. 20, as requested, would frustrate action on one transaction to be investigated, in that the statute of limitations would become operative. That transaction was the use made by the bishop of $65,300 given him by E. C. Jameson of New York to finance the anti-Smith campaign in Virginia. Cannon never has accounted for this money.

His request for delay was based on a desire to go to Europe. Nye said, in an open letter, that if Cannon would put his request in writing he would submit it to the full committee, but added that it was "unacceptable."

2 SHARP QUAKES FELT IN LISBON; CAUSE BRIEF PANIC

Lisbon, Portugal, May 20.—(U.P.)—Two sharp earthquakes were felt in Lisbon at 3:30 p. m. today. They caused a brief panic but no casualties or property damage was reported. The tremors were felt elsewhere throughout the country.

AMERICAN LABOR GOES INTO FIGHT OF ITS CAREER

TO CAMPAIGN AGAINST DEMAND FOR WAGE REDUCTIONS

AMERICAN LABOR TO FIGHT TO MAINTAIN STANDARD OF AMERICAN LIVING

Washington, May 19.—(U.P.)—American labor "is probably in the fight of its life" in its campaign against wage cutting, Matthew Woll, vice president of the American Federation of Labor, told the National Association of Mutual Savings Banks today.

"The demand for wage cuts is part of a campaign which is only now beginning again and which has been planned as a part of the program of the international control of capital, of manufacture, of markets, of prices—and of labor, by those who would master the world in the interests of a few. The most gigantic empire of all the ages is now being envisioned by these men who look with complacency on the wrecking of a standard of civilization set up by the blood and tears of millions."

"American labor," he said, "will fight to maintain" the American standard of living against international bankers, industrialists and economists who, he said, would "liquidate labor."

The pressure of credit facilities, he said, "is being used by a number of our bankers to an increasing extent in order to liquidate labor."

The conference, representing $10,500,000.00 of mutual savings bank assets, heard praise of the savings banks as a means of ameliorating worst effects of the depression.

Thomas F. Wallace, president of the National Association of Mutual Savings Banks and president of the Farmers and Mechanics Savings Bank, of Minneapolis, demanded that congress and state legislatures enact measures compelling the segregation of savings and commercial deposits.

"Recent failures of commercial banks in New York and others of our large cities brought to light the glaring effects of the present system, a system which in most cases resulted in the savings deposits in those banks being left with the bank's most unreliable assets as their only source of payment," Wallace said.

Rome C. Stephenson, South Bend, Ind., president of the American Bankers' Association, said the depression "was materially relieved because of the great amount of money in savings accounts in the United States, aggregating more than $28,000,000,000."

Losses from bank failures, he said, have been "infinitesimally small" as compared with other losses during the depression.

CONSTANT INCREASE OF ACCIDENTS IN STATE

Minneapolis, May 20.—(U.P.)—Constant increase in accidents in Minnesota together with alleged excessive leniency of juries in awarding damages means a certain increase in rates on automobile liability and property damage insurance, Arthur H. Stofft, Minneapolis insurance man, said today.

The amount of increase will be determined at a meeting which insurers will call within the next 30 days, he said.

Two Firemen Overcome by Smoke in St. Paul Fire

St. Paul, May 20.—(U.P.)—Two firemen today were recovering from being overcome by smoke last night while battling flames in a three-story downtown building. They were Captain Neal Clarkin and Thomas Joyce, pipe man, both of engine company No. 2. The two were unconscious when found in the basement by fellow firemen. Damages were estimated at $16,500.

Greyhound Bus Crashes Into Culvert; 4 Injured

Washington, May 20.—(U.P.)—Four persons were injured, two seriously, when a Greyhound bus crashed into a culvert last night near Muirkirk, Md. The bus was en route from Washington to Baltimore.

Mrs. Charlotte Nixon-Nirdlinger, St. Louis Prize Beauty, Killing Husband, is Acquitted

FRENCH JURY ACTS AFTER 25 MINUTES OF DELIBERATION

SHE REPUDIATES VIGOROUSLY INSINUATIONS SHE HAD A LOVER

CONVINCES JURY SHE SHOT IN SELF-DEFENSE WHEN HUSBAND STRANGLED HER

By MARY K. KNIGHT (United Press Staff Correspondent)

Nice, France, May 20.—Mrs. Charlotte Nixon-Nirdlinger, St. Louis prize beauty who shot and killed her jealous husband during a quarrel, was acquitted by a French jury today.

The American girl, dressed in mourning for the man she killed, convinced the French jurors that she had shot in self-defense when her middle-aged husband tried to strangle her.

She repudiated vigorously, insinuations that she had a lover and that she married the wealthy Philadelphia theatrical man, Fred Nixon-Nirdlinger, for his money.

The jury acquitted Mrs. Nixon-Nirdlinger on the grounds of self-defense. Only 25 minutes were spent in deliberation, the verdict coming just at 6 P. M.

"I am so happy," she told the United Press correspondent. "I knew they would do the right thing. I only want my children. We will sail as soon as my passport is fixed. It has expired. I also have to get papers to permit the children's nurse to enter the United States."

Mrs. James Nash of St. Louis, defendant's mother, sat beside me in the press gallery while the jury was out, biting her handkerchief.

"Hold my hand, honey," she whispered. "You know I have heart trouble. I'm afraid I can't stand the strain of waiting."

She slumped in a half faint on my arm.

While the trial was in progress, the two children played on the beach in the sunshine.

Twenty minutes after the verdict was announced, Mrs. Nixon-Nirdlinger and her mother left the court in a taxicab. Thousands thronged the street, cheering and throwing flowers at them.

Mrs. Nixon-Nirdlinger had all the advantages of expensive legal talent, oratory and her own unusual beauty. She pleaded self-defense. French experts had indicated that the bullets in the wall and those in the victim proved that she shot upwards. She said she was on a bed when her husband attacked her and she shot in self-defense.

Her attorneys included an American, Morgan Farrell, Louis Gassin, an influential French lawyer of great local prestige, and a fiery orator; and Jose Bonifacio, probably the strongest trio of criminal lawyers any Nice court had even seen.

FEW CHANGES IN STATE BOARDS

St. Paul, May 20.—(U.P.)—All but two state boards whose memberships are made up according to congressional districts probably will remain undisturbed until the 1933 legislative session, state officials said today.

Officials and legislators expressed informal views that only the board of regents and the state fair board would be subject to change from ten members to nine.

Raymond A. Lee, secretary of the state fair board, is preparing a written request to Attorney General Henry N. Benson for a ruling on the question in event the courts hold that the nine district bill is valid.

Belief that the other state boards will remain unchanged until the 1933 session is based on the fact that the present 10 congressmen from Minnesota will hold office until March 4, 1933.

RALPH BARTON, FAMED ARTIST, COMMITS SUICIDE

HAD BEEN DEEPLY IN LOVE WITH A YOUNG DETROIT HEIRESS

BARTON WAS ESPECIALLY PROMINENT IN THEATRICAL AND LITERARY CIRCLES

New York, May 20.—(U.P.)—Ralph Barton, famed artist and caricaturist, shot himself to death today in his lavish penthouse apartment in midtown Manhattan apparently as a result of unrequited love.

His brother, Homer Barton, actor and traveler, and a writer friend of the dead man, told the United Press that Barton had been deeply in love with Ruth Kresge of Detroit, heiress to the Kresge millions. The girl is engaged to Rufus Clark Caulkins, said to be a member of the diplomatic service at Riga.

Friends said he was once engaged to Miss Kresge and his brother said today, "Ralph was a sensitive boy and took his love affairs seriously. Once he was in love with a girl he wanted to marry her."

Barton was 39 years old.

Barton had the reputation of being a gay, witty, man-about-town type who went in for resplendent and sometimes eccentric dress, and who frequented the most famous eating places of the city. He was especially prominent in theatrical and literary circles.

Police said he had committed suicide. A bullet had penetrated his left temple.

A maid in the penthouse apartment, Mary Jefferson, found him in bed when she entered the room this morning. Police who arrived a short time later said he had been dead for some time.

Barton returned from Paris a few weeks ago after his fourth wife had divorced him in the French courts.

NEW PROBE OF STATE ACCOUNTS BY E. J. PEARLOVE

STATE COMPTROLLER GOES INTO EXPENSES OF 5 DEPUTY STATE FIRE MARSHALS

SEVERAL DEPUTIES QUESTIONED, NOTHING MADE PUBLIC SO FAR

St. Paul, Minn., May 20.—(U.P.)—A second investigation into state accounts began today when State Comptroller E. J. Pearlove started going over expense sheets of deputy state fire marshals.

Pearlove, Garfield W. Brown, state fire marshal, and A. R. Johnson, state public examiner, questioned several deputies. The officials would not comment on what charges, if any, would be brought against the deputy marshals.

Ramsey County Attorney M. F. Kinkead today continued his study of Pearlove's charges against P. R. Waddell, deposed deputy state commissioner of purchases. Kinkead said he would decide tomorrow what procedure to take against Waddell.

The former purchasing commission director is charged with a shortage of $4,364.91 in his accounts.

H. H. Flowers, deposed secretary of the rural credits bureau, will go on trial next week on charges of accepting commissions on public contracts.

CLAIMS PROOF OF INNOCENCE OF MOONEY, BILLINGS

Los Angeles, Calif., May 20.—(U.P.)—The Los Angeles Record said today in a copyright story that Carl von Moltke, a German, claiming to be a nephew of the famous Field Marshal von Moltke of the Franco-Prussian war, claimed to have documentary proof that Tom Mooney and Warren K. Billings did not bomb the San Francisco Preparedness day parade on July 22, 1916.

Von Moltke yesterday was convicted of receiving stolen property and breaking into an automobile plant. He is in jail here planning to appeal.

Allen H. Stem, Noted Architect, Dies in St. Paul

St. Paul, May 20.—(U.P.)—Allen H. Stem, who designed the Grand Central terminal in New York city, died last night in Miller hospital.

Stem was born in Van Wert, Ohio, in 1856. He attended the Indianapolis art school and did architectural work there until he came to St. Paul in 1884. He designed the Denver and St. Paul auditoriums, the Michigan City, Ind., library and numerous terminal stations for the New York Central and Northern Pacific railroads.

He had been ill three weeks.

TOTAL CONTRACT FOR LOCAL SHOPS IS 1,000 CARS

THE LATEST DEVELOPMENTS IN FREIGHT CAR CONSTRUCTION EMBODIED IN DESIGN

WORK DONE AT LOCAL SHOPS BENEFITS ALL TRADE CHANNELS

Actual construction of the first 500 box cars to be built under the current program of the Northern Pacific Railway Company was today commenced at the local shops.

The program, as announced late last year by Charles Donnelly, president of the road, contemplates the construction of 3,000 cars in the various company shops as follows: Brainerd, 1,000; Combs (St. Paul), 500; stock; Laurel, Mont., 500; South Tacoma, Wash., 1,000 refrigerator.

Embodiment in their design the latest developments in freight car construction the building of this equipment will serve a dual purpose—first, to provide sufficient cars for the peak requirements of the company; second, and at a time when it is most needed, furnish employment for the workers of the country. Indeed, the above order might well be reversed for obviously with business at its present level the need of equipment is not immediate, and the decision of the Northern Pacific officials to build at this time shows not only foresight but gives concrete evidence of their faith in the full and early recovery of our economic prosperity—together with a sincere desire to afford work for their employees; and the results of their choice to build the cars in company shops instead of placing the order with eastern car-builders will be quickly and favorably felt by the business people served by the company.

In securing part of the work—which is the largest car building program being at present under way in the United States—Brainerd has been especially fortunate, for, as it was pointed out today in an interview with H. E. Bergstrom, shop superintendent, in addition to the 1,000 cars to be built here the local shops will manufacture the forgings to be used on the cars to be built at Combs and Laurel shops.

It is only after considering the preparation and work involved in a large car building program that one is forcibly impressed with the magnitude of the undertaking; for while the designing and building of a box car—although it requires a special degree of technical knowledge and mechanical skill, is just another day of work and satisfaction to a railroad man, it is, to one not so well versed in such matters, something else again—as it was learned in the interview with Mr. Bergstrom. For instance—to present the picture in its chronological order—after the decision to build had been arrived at and the design of car decided upon, it required a number of mechanical engineers and draftsmen to prepare the necessary one hundred and fifty odd sheets of drawings and details. After the drawings were checked and approved then came the work of drawing off the bills of material and submitting them to the various steel companies, foundries, lumber mills, manufacturers and railway supply houses for bids. Before the orders for material could be finally closed, however, a sample car had to be built in order to determine if the hundreds of parts as designed could be assembled into a complete and mechanically correct whole. As a large number of the parts used on the sample car had to be made by hand, its completion naturally took considerable time. Also at this time another important feature had to be taken care of—this was the changing over and addition to shop facilities in order to handle the new work. Tracks had to be shifted, location of machines changed and new machines purchased and installed; dies for making car forgings had to be designed and made.

After the sample car had been completed and O. K'd, the few necessary changes made in the drawings and orders for material finally placed, came the work of receiving and storing the various items preparatory to their use. This alone, for the 500 cars now being built, is a stupendous task when it is considered that into their construction will enter over 23 million pounds of material—or in excess of 12,000 tons; enough to fill three full trains of 100 cars each. Among the items purchased were: 1,230 tons of pressed steel shapes for the ends and underframes; 1,175 tons of iron and steel castings; 550 tons of iron bar for the forgings; three million board feet of lumber; 45,000 pieces of pipe fittings for the air brakes; 476,000 bolts and nuts; 52,500 lbs. of nails; 750,000 rivets weighing 150 tons; ten thousand gallons of body and underframe paint.

The drying, surfacing and framing of the lumber is being handled in the shop dry-kill and mill, while the blacksmith shop is making the car forgings. In addition to the local requirements, the blacksmith shop, in manufacturing the forgings for the cars to be built at Combs and Laurel shops, will work a total of 2,500 tons.

BODY OF BRIG-GEN. DUNLAP RECOVERED

BURIED UNDER TONS OF ROCK IN CHATEAU LA FARINIERE LANDSLIDE

Tours, France, May 20.—(U.P.)—The body of Brig-Gen. Robert H. Dunlap was recovered today, buried under tons of rock and mud by a landslide at the Chateau La Fariniere.

Mrs. Denis Briant, a peasant's wife, was discovered by rescue workers imprisoned but unhurt in a cave-like hut beneath tons of rocks and mud. She had no knowledge of General Dunlap, who gave his life in an effort to rescue her, or of her husband, also a victim of the landslide.

A voice was heard shortly before noon. The rescuers, fatigued by a night of labor, dug toward the sound and at last reached the place where Mrs. Briant was shut in. Tons of rock and earth, undermined by rains, had slid down a low cliff in the Loire valley and it was after she was caught in the first slide that General Dunlap and her husband were caught in another slide while trying to reach her.

The body of Briant was found crushed beside that of Dunlap.

Major Robert L. Walsh, assistant military attaché of the American embassy, will take Dunlap's body to Paris, accompanied by the widow. Interment will probably be in Washington.

All Ready for the "Fray"

Comprising the First, Fifth and Ninety-ninth Observation Squadrons of the U. S. Air Corps, the above fleet of planes is shown at Mitchell Field, New York, before taking off for Dayton, Ohio, to participate in the Army air maneuvers. There were 39 planes in the group and they looked such a lot that the idea of 672 which will take part in the war game staggers the imagination.

NEW PROBE OF STATE ACCOUNTS BY E. J. PEARLOVE

STATE COMPTROLLER GOES INTO EXPENSES OF 5 DEPUTY STATE FIRE MARSHALS

SEVERAL DEPUTIES QUESTIONED, NOTHING MADE PUBLIC SO FAR

St. Paul, Minn., May 20.—(U.P.)—A second investigation into state accounts began today when State Comptroller E. J. Pearlove started going over expense sheets of deputy state fire marshals.

Pearlove, Garfield W. Brown, state fire marshal, and A. R. Johnson, state public examiner, questioned several deputies. The officials would not comment on what charges, if any, would be brought against the deputy marshals.

Ramsey County Attorney M. F. Kinkead today continued his study of Pearlove's charges against P. R. Waddell, deposed deputy state commissioner of purchases. Kinkead said he would decide tomorrow what procedure to take against Waddell.

The former purchasing commission deputy is charged with a shortage of $4,364.91 in his accounts.

H. H. Flowers, deposed secretary of the rural credits bureau, will go on trial next week on charges of accepting commissions on public contracts.

CLAIMS PROOF OF INNOCENCE OF MOONEY, BILLINGS

Los Angeles, Calif., May 20.—(U.P.)—The Los Angeles Record said today in a copyright story that Carl von Moltke, a German, claiming to be a nephew of the famous Field Marshal von Moltke of the Franco-Prussian war, claimed to have documentary proof that Tom Mooney and Warren K. Billings did not bomb the San Francisco Preparedness day parade on July 2, 1916.

Von Moltke yesterday was convicted of receiving stolen property and breaking into an automobile plant. He is in jail here planning to appeal.

Allen H. Stem, Noted Architect, Dies in St. Paul

St. Paul, May 20.—(U.P.)—Allen H. Stem, who designed the Grand Central terminal in New York city, died last night in Miller hospital.

Stem was born in Van Wert, Ohio, in 1856. He attended the Indianapolis art school and did architectural work there until he came to St. Paul in 1884. He designed the Denver and St. Paul auditoriums, the Michigan City, Ind., library and numerous terminal stations for the New York Central and Northern Pacific railroads.

He had been ill three weeks.

All Ready for the "Fray"

Comprising the First, Fifth and Ninety-ninth Observation Squadrons of the U. S. Air Corps, the above fleet of planes is shown at Mitchell Field, New York, before taking off for Dayton, Ohio, to participate in the Army air maneuvers. There were 39 planes in the group and they looked such a lot that the idea of 672 which will take part in the war game staggers the imagination.

TOTAL CONTRACT FOR LOCAL SHOPS IS 1,000 CARS

THE LATEST DEVELOPMENTS IN FREIGHT CAR CONSTRUCTION EMBODIED IN DESIGN

WORK DONE AT LOCAL SHOPS BENEFITS ALL TRADE CHANNELS

Actual construction of the first 500 box cars to be built under the current program of the Northern Pacific Railway Company was today commenced at the local shops.

The program, as announced late last year by Charles Donnelly, president of the road, contemplates the construction of 3,000 cars in the various company shops as follows: Brainerd, 1,000 box; Como (St. Paul), 500 stock; Laurel, Mont., 500 box; South Tacoma, Wash., 1,000 refrigerator.

Embodiment in their design the latest developments in freight car construction the building of this equipment will serve a dual purpose—first, to provide sufficient care for the peak requirements of the company; second, and at a time when it is most needed, furnish employment for the workers of the country. Indeed, the above order might well be reversed for obviously with business at its present level the need of equipment is not immediate, and the decision of the Northern Pacific officials to build at this time shows not only foresight but gives concrete evidence of their faith in the full and early recovery of our economic prosperity—altogether with a sincere desire to afford work for their employees. And the results of their choice to build the cars in company shops instead of placing the order with eastern carbuilders will be quickly and favorably felt by the business people served by the company.

In securing part of the work—which is the largest car building program being at present under way in the United States—Brainerd has been especially fortunate, for, as it was pointed out today in an interview with H. E. Bergstrom, shop superintendent—in addition to the 1,000 cars to be built here the local shops will manufacture the forgings to be used on the cars to be built at Como and Laurel shops.

It is only after considering the preparation and work involved in a large car building program that one is forcibly impressed with the magnitude of the undertaking; for while the designing and building of a box car—although it requires a special degree of technical knowledge and mechanical skill, is just another day of work and satisfaction to a railroad man, it is, to one not so well versed in such matters, something else again—as it was learned in the interview with Mr. Bergstrom. For instance—to present the picture in its chronological order—after the decision to build had been arrived at and the design of car decided upon, it required a number of mechanical engineers and draftsmen to prepare the necessary one hundred and fifty odd sheets of drawings and details. After the drawings were checked and approved then came the work of drawing off the bills of material and submitting them to the various steel companies, foundries, lumber mills, manufacturers and railway supply houses for bids. Before the orders for material could be finally closed, however, a sample car had to be built in order to determine if the hundreds of parts as designed could be assembled into a complete and mechanically correct whole. As a large number of the parts used on the sample car had to be made by hand, its completion naturally took considerable time. Also at this time another important feature had to be taken care of—this was the changing over and addition to shop facilities in order to handle the new work. Tracks had to be shifted, location of machines changed and new machines purchased and installed; dies for making car forgings had to be designed and made. After the sample car had been completed and O. K'd, the few necessary changes made in the drawings and orders for material finally placed, came the work of receiving and storing the various items preparatory to their use. This alone, for the 500 cars now being built, is a stupendous task when it is considered that into their construction will enter over 23 million pounds of material—or in excess of 12,000 tons; enough to fill three full trains of 100 cars each. Among the items purchased were: 1,230 tons of pressed steel shapes for the ends and underframes; 1,175 tons of iron and steel castings; 550 tons of iron bar for the forgings; three million board feet of lumber; 45,000 lineal feet of pipe and air brakes; 476,000 bolts and nuts; 52,500 lbs. of nails; 750,000 rivets weighing 150 tons; ten thousand gallons of body and underframe paint.

The drying, surfacing and framing of the lumber is being handled in the shop dry-kiln and mill, while the blacksmith shop is making the car forgings. In addition to the local requirements, the blacksmith shop, in manufacturing the forgings for the cars to be built at Como and Laurel shops, will work a total of 2,500 tons.

NATION WIDE SEARCH ON FOR YOUNG LOTHARIO

GEO. W. E. PERRY IS CHARGED WITH MARRYING 4 WOMEN, KILLING ONE OF THEM

ONE WIFE, 3 CHILDREN FOUND IN MILWAUKEE, DESERTED IN AUGUST, 1929

San Francisco, May 20.—(U.P.)—Interest in the nation-wide search for George W. E. Perry, former Milwaukee brakeman who deserted his family, married four women in rapid succession and was charged with killing one of them, was revived today as police sought positively to identify Frank J. Moran as the suspect wanted in Wisconsin and other states.

Moran was arrested by Police Inspector James J. Johnston who noted his resemblance to Perry's picture in a detective story magazine. Moran denied ever having been in Eagle River, Wis., where Mrs. Cora Belle Hackett-Perry was slain about July 6, 1930. He said he could prove that he was in New Orleans on that day. Johnston met Moran here last January when the latter was robbed after marrying Miss Anna Gutierrez, 28, of San Salvador.

Descriptions and general appearance of Moran and Perry are almost identical, police said. Both are 5 feet 6 inches tall and weigh 165 lbs.; have cleft chins, a scarred face, two gold teeth and a cataract over the right eye.

A nation-wide search for Perry had been underway since discovery of Mrs. Hackett-Perry's body, shot through the back, on the border of Lac Du Flambeau reservation near Eagle River Sept. 30, 1930.

A first degree murder warrant was issued for Perry, and the search for him disclosed his other marriages.

One wife and three children were found in Milwaukee. She said he deserted her in August, 1929.

Piecing together reports of his roving after that, police learned he married Mrs. Hackett, whom he met through a matrimonial agency, in Chicago on June 22. After their marriage, she gave up her job, stored her furniture, and left on a honeymoon in her sedan.

In July Perry appeared in Cleveland and gave some of Mrs. Hackett's clothing to Mrs. Kathryn Gebhardt Perry, a seamstress whom he previously had married.

He left her August 12 on the pretext of a business trip to Texas. Pausing in Eldorado, Ill., he married Mrs. Lida Downe. A few days later, he courted and married Elizabeth Morrison, 40, at Harrisburg, Ill.

At St. Louis a short time later, he met Mrs. Harriet Milligan and married her at Belleville, Ill.

His wanderings then took him to Elytheville, Ark., where he became enamored of Miss Dorothy Davis, 22. Police caught up with him there and laid a trap which he eluded after obtaining a $150 loan on Mrs. Hackett's sedan.

To the women he met, he portrayed himself as a roving son of wealthy parents. From each of them he obtained loans on the pretext that his parents insisted that he marry and settle down before coming into his inheritance.

Moran was found living at his wife's boarding house. She protested that he "was a good man who stayed at home nights."

Two Children Rescued From Burning Home

Minneapolis, May 20.—(U.P.)—Two infant children of Mr. and Mrs. Odd N. Stene were rescued by firemen last night when the upper part of the Stene home was destroyed by fire.

Charles Johnson, a neighbor, tried to reach the children, Nancy, 3, and Odd, Jr., 1, but had been driven back by smoke. Firemen raised ladders and broke into the room to carry the two crying youngsters safely to their parents.

The loss was estimated at $500.

Mrs. Baker has only recently returned from the national convention of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers and has a fund of information to draw upon. It is to be hoped that a representative gathering of Brainerd citizens will greet Mrs. Baker at the meeting which will be held in the cafeteria of the high school, beginning at 8 o'clock in the evening.

'THE WAY OF ALL MEN' IS UNUSUAL DRAMA

"Way Of All Men" is the name of one of the most unusual film dramas produced for many years. It comes to the Paramount theatre, Thursday and Friday with Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., and Dorothy Revier in the principal dramatic roles.

The story is based on Henning Berger's European dramatic sensation, "Synflooden" but Frank Lloyd, the famous director who megaphoned this First National version, changed its locale to America and added even more punch to the powerful drama of "naked characters."

"Way Of All Men," is in First National's American version, laid in a Mississippi River town, and its characters are trapped underground in a flood caused by broken levees. The characters are all involved in business, religious, political or romantic intrigues, and these all come to dramatic climaxes when they face death together.

Close Season with Brilliant Social Event Given at Lake Home

The League of Women Voters closed the season with a brilliant social event held at the lake home of Mrs. A. K. Cohen. Fifty women did not crowd this commodious home as they sat at card tables and, before playing, listened to a very interesting review of the measures passed by the legislature which were sponsored by women. This review was given by Mrs. E. P. Scallan of Crosby.

Among the measures that the league actively supported that were passed she mentioned the five day waiting period required between the application for and granting of a marriage license, the Teachers' Retirement bill, the appropriation for Maternity and Infancy and stated that although the Fifty-four Hour law for women did not pass, it seems quite possible that the law passed in 1923, which the attorney general held invalid because of a technical error, may be found to be operative. That, at least, is the opinion of the present attorney general.

She stated that the reason the bill raising the age of majority for girls to twenty-one years failed was because it was thought that it would work a hardship in specific cases where girls would lose their jobs if the bill passed. It would seem as if this measure had not been "balked" by sufficient educational preparation," to quote from the Minnesota Woman Voter, for no social reform is accomplished without working a hardship to some individuals.

But another bill that failed did not fail for this reason, Mrs. Scallan said. That was the bill for the establishment of a psychopathic hospital at the university. She said that the campaign of education that was put on in favor of this bill would undoubtedly bear fruit at some future time but that the legislature felt that this was not the time to appropriate as much money as this project would require. But they did appropriate $200,000 additional for the receiving hospital in Fergus Falls where border line mental cases are studied and given the same sort of expert care as in a psychopathic hospital. But it is wholly inadequate to the needs of the state.

The conservation bill that passed was the one that was sponsored by the State Federation of Women's Clubs, Mrs. Scallan stated. There is a wide difference of opinion as to whether a board of five members will be more efficient than a single head of conservation appointed by the governor who could be held politically accountable for his stewardship. The conservationists in the federation believed in divided responsibility and were able to bring enough pressure to bear to pass their bill.

After this very interesting talk, auction bridge was the order of business. Mrs. Ernest Butler receiving the first prize and Mrs. J. O'Brien the consolation prize.

A delicious luncheon was served and everyone pronounced the whole affair delightful. Acting on the committee with the hostess was the chairman of finance, Mrs. J. J. Cummins. Mrs. Dean White and Mrs. Chas. Trebostky assisted in serving.

DINNER TO DEDICATE NEW INWOOD LODGE

Brainerd People Make Reservations to Attending Resort Opening May 28

"Inwood's" new lodge, dining room and lounge, constructed entirely of native pine logs, will be officially dedicated by Brainerd people who are now making reservations to attend the opening dinner there Thursday evening, May 28.

The new lodge conforms with the spirit of progress started on May 27, 1917 when the Misses Helen and Jessie Archer opened the resort with 14 guests. At that time the lodge was the former summer home of the late Walter Colman. There were six cottages in use at that time, all located on Lake Margaret. Expansion continued yearly. In 1921, the Archer sisters purchased lake property on Gull Lake and combined the two shores for their resort. There are now 22 cottages besides the lodge and pavilion.

The new lodge dining room will accommodate 125 persons. The lodge is to be decorated with curtains and rugs of red and green. A feature of the lodge is the open stone terrace. Two beautiful stone fireplaces enhance the dining room. The lounge is so situated that it can be used for additional dining room space.

Two fraternity parties are being planned. Sigma Alpha Epsilon will be at the resort the week end of May 23. There will be 80 guests. The Delta Tau Deltas will gather at the resort the week end of June 13. Reservations have been made for 50 guests.

Attending Convention
Mrs. George A. Tracy, Mrs. M. A. Angel, Rev. and Mrs. Edgar A. Vallant and two daughters are in Minneapolis attending the Women's Organization of the Northwestern association of the Baptist state convention, being held at the University Baptist church. Mr. and Mrs. Vallant, Mrs. Tracy and Mrs. Angel are delegates from the First Baptist church of Brainerd. The meeting is representing about 7,000 women in the Northwestern association, and several prominent and national speakers are in attendance. They left Monday noon, and will return tomorrow.

Forward Society
The Forward society of the First Evangelical Lutheran church will meet on Thursday evening at 8 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Peterson, 410 Pine street. The hostesses are Mrs. Gladys Mraz and Alice Bergquist. Visitors and friends are welcome.

Sometimes it's thrifty to spend. When you can buy up on the needs of life at exceptionally low price, it's better to buy than to put money in the bank. This wise philosophy is apparently held by many local people—judging from the large crowds that are visiting Ward's Summer Sale this week.

Mrs. Julia Narveson of Minneapolis arrived in the city Monday evening from Superior, Wis., where she had been called by the illness and death of her sister, Mrs. T. J. Anderson. Mrs. Narveson will visit with relatives in the city before returning to her home in Minneapolis.

BRAINERD 25 Years Ago

May 20, 1906

N. E. Entriken is down from Cross Lake to spend Sunday with his parents, and reports that about 3,000,000 feet of logs were destroyed in the fire there this week. Luck was with the Northland Pine company in one way at least, for a boom was cut and a large number of logs driven into the lake to save them from the fire. The next night a heavy wind set in toward shore and blew them all back to the landing.

Anton Drogseth had his arm painfully injured this afternoon at the Brainerd Lumber Mill where he is employed as a machinist helper. It is thought there will be no permanent injury.

Albert LaFond, in charge of the Ransford billiard parlors, left today for a brief trip to Chicago.

John Brady, stenographer at the shops for some time past, left today to accept a position in the general offices at St. Paul. He is succeeded here by McKinzie.

Mons Mahlum went to Smiley this afternoon to look after some logs no has there.

The city baseball team goes to Staples tonight to play the Staples team tomorrow.

Geo. Day's team beat Tom Dykeman's baseball team by a score of 17 to 6 this forenoon. Batteries were Earl Koop and Bobby Trent, Mark Rice and Tom Dykeman.

A pleasant surprise was given Ray and Mrs. Johnson last evening by members of the class which he confirmed. They were presented with a beautiful clock.

St. Francis Guild

The St. Francis Guild will hold its regular meeting Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the Guild hall. Convention reports will be given and the yearly report will be read.

STATE P. T. A. HEAD TO SPEAK IN CITY

Mrs. Ernest L. Baker to Address
Local P. T. A. Groups
Friday Evening

Word has been received from Mrs. Ernest L. Baker, president of the Minnesota Congress of Parents and Teachers by the officers of the local Central Council that she will arrive in Brainerd Friday at noon.

Mrs. Baker will be the speaker of the evening at the annual joint meeting of the seven local Parent Teachers associations. She is making a special effort to come to Brainerd at this time in order to familiarize herself with conditions relative to the annual convention to be held next October.

The joint meeting on Friday night will be an exceptional opportunity for parents and teachers of the students in Brainerd schools to become acquainted with the parent teachers work as carried out in the state and nation. Mrs. Baker has only recently returned from the national convention of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers and has a fund of information to draw upon. It is to be hoped that a representative gathering of Brainerd citizens will greet Mrs. Baker at the meeting which will be held in the cafeteria of the high school, beginning at 8 o'clock in the evening.

During Friday afternoon Mrs. Baker at the meeting which will be with officers of the local Central Council. She will be the guest of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Opsahl while in the city.

'THE WAY OF ALL MEN' IS UNUSUAL DRAMA

"Way Of All Men" is the name of one of the most unusual film dramas produced for many years. It comes to the Paramount theatre, Thursday and Friday with Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., and Dorothy Revier in the principal dramatic roles.

The story is based on Henning Berger's European dramatic sensation, "Synfoden" but Frank Lloyd, the famous director who megaphoned this first National version, changed its locale to America and added even more punch to the powerful drama of "naked characters."

"Way Of All Men" is in First National's American version, laid in a Mississippi River town, and its characters are trapped underground in a flood caused by broken levees. The characters are all involved in business, religious, political or romantic intrigues, and these all come to dramatic climaxes when they face death together.

Navy Chatter

Do you know that:

Of the 197 men who made application for enlistment in the U. S. navy from the recruiting districts comprised of the states of Minnesota and North Dakota, during the month of April, but 6.6 per cent were enlisted.

One hundred men from the enlisted ranks are selected annually for appointment to the Naval Academy. During the fiscal year of 1930, 94,778 men applied for enlistment in the navy and about 12,643 were accepted.

In the twentieth century the navy quieted an insurrection in the Philippine Islands.

The navy participated in the stabilizing of Samoa.

The navy protected American rights and lives during the Boxer rebellion in China.

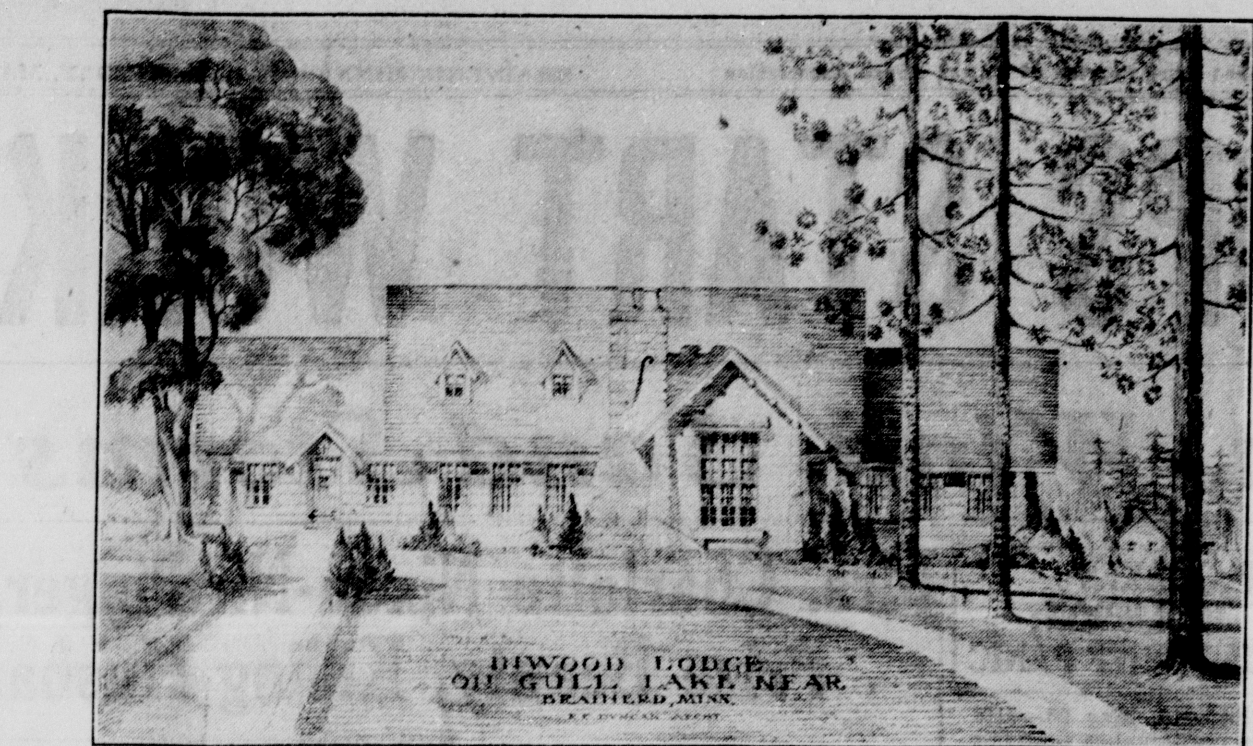

The navy promoted international good feeling toward America by its cruise about the world.

Close Season with Brilliant Social Event Given at Lake Home

The League of Women Voters closed the season with a brilliant social event held at the lake home of Mrs. A. K. Cohen. Fifty women did not crowd this commodious home as they sat at card tables and, before playing, listened to a very interesting review of the measures passed by the legislature which were sponsored by women. This review was given by Mrs. E. P. Scallion of Crosby.

Among the measures that the league actively supported that were passed she mentioned the five day waiting period required between the application for and granting of a marriage license, the Teachers' Retirement bill, the appropriation for Maternity and Infancy and stated that although the Fifty-four Hour law for women did not pass, it seems quite possible that the law passed in 1923, which the attorney general held invalid because of a technical error, may be found to be operative. That, at least, is the opinion of the present attorney general.

She stated that the reason the bill raising the age of majority for girls to twenty-one years failed was because it was thought that it would work a hardship in specific cases where girls would lose their jobs if the bill passed. It would seem as if this measure had not been "bulwarked by sufficient educational preparation," to quote from the Minnesota Woman Voter, for no social reform is accomplished without working a hardship to some individuals.

But another bill that failed did not fail for this reason, Mrs. Scallion said. That was the bill for the establishment of a psychopathic hospital at the university. She said that the campaign of education that was put on in favor of this bill would undoubtedly bear fruit at some future time but that the legislature felt that this was not the time to appropriate as much money as this project would require. But they did appropriate $200,000 additional for the receiving hospital in Fergus Falls where border line mental cases are studied and given the same sort of expert care as in a psychopathic hospital. But it is wholly inadequate to the needs of the state.

The conservation bill that passed was the one that was sponsored by the State Federation of Women's Clubs, Mrs. Scallion stated. There is a wide difference of opinion as to whether a board of five members will be more efficient than a single head of conservation appointed by the governor who could be held politically accountable for his stewardship. The conservationists in the federation believed in divided responsibility and were able to bring enough pressure to bear to pass their bill.

After this very interesting talk, auction bridge was the order of business, Mrs. Ernest Butler receiving the first prize and Mrs. J. O'Brien the consolation prize.

A delicious luncheon was served and everyone pronounced the whole affair delightful. Acting on the committee with the hostess was the chairman of finance, Mrs. J. J. Cummins. Mrs. Dean White and Mrs. Chas. Trebostky assisted in serving.

DINNER TO DEDICATE NEW INWOOD LODGE

Brainerd People Make Reservations to Attending Resort Opening May 28

"Inwood's" new lodge, dining room and lounge, constructed entirely of native pine logs, will be officially dedicated by Brainerd people who are now making reservations to attend the opening dinner there Thursday evening, May 28.

The new lodge conforms with the spirit of progress started on May 27, 1917 when the Misses Helen and Jessie Archer opened the resort with 11 guests. At that time the lodge was the former summer home of the late Walter Colman. There were six cottages in use at that time, all located on Lake Margaret. Expansion continued yearly. In 1921, the Archer sisters purchased lake property on Gull Lake and combined the two shores for their resort. There are now 22 cottages besides the lodge and pavilion.

The new lodge dining room will accommodate 125 persons. The lodge is to be decorated with curtains and rugs of red and green. A feature of the lodge is the open stone terrace. Two beautiful stone fireplaces enhance the dining room. The lounge is so situated that it can be used for additional dining room space.

Two fraternity parties are being planned. Sigma Alpha Epsilon will be at the resort the week end of May 23. There will be 80 guests. The Delta Tau Deltas will gather at the resort the week end of June 13. Reservations have been made for 80 guests.

Attending Convention

Mrs. George A. Tracy, Mrs. M. A. Angel, Rev. and Mrs. Edgar A. Vallant and two daughters are in Minneapolis attending the Women's Organization of the Northwestern association of the Baptist state convention, being held at the University Baptist church. Mr. and Mrs. Vallant, Mrs. Tracy and Mrs. Angel are delegates from the First Baptist church of Brainerd. The meeting is representing about 7,000 women in the Northwestern association, and several prominent and national speakers are in attendance. They left Monday noon, and will return tomorrow.

Forward Society

The Forward society of the First Evangelical Lutheran church will meet on Thursday evening at 8 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Peterson, 410 Pine street. The hostesses are Mrs. Gladys Mraz and Alice Bergquist. Visitors and friends are welcome.

Granted Leave of Absence

Miss Eula Michael, city nurse, has been granted a two weeks leave of absence besides her regular two weeks vacation this summer so she might visit in Phoenix, Arizona.

Fruth-Brisbane

Miss Loretta Brisbane, daughter of Mrs. Grace Brisbane of Riverton and Alfred Fruth of Daggett Brook, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Fruth, were married Saturday at the St. Joseph Catholic church at Ironton, Rev. Fr. Frederick officiating. Attendants were Miss Catherine Fruth of Daggett Brook, sister of the groom, and Joseph Brisbane of Riverton, brother of the bride.

Mr. and Mrs. Fruth expect to make their home at Riverton after a wedding trip to Minneapolis and the southern part of the state. Mr. Fruth is employed at the Sagamore mine.

Brainerd Faces Future Confidently

BRAINERD faces the future confidently and business conditions look good.

At the Northern Pacific Railway shops construction has started on the first 500 box cars of a 1,000 car contract. This accession of work at the shops providing employment for many men of the city, means an accession of $17,000 in monthly pay-rolls. The railway shops have a record in construction work and years ago turned out most satisfactory cars for the company. The Northern Pacific Railway Company is to be commended for providing additional work and also seeing to it that such work and many material supplies were allotted in its own territory, thus aiding business channels in many ways.

Locally the building program receives new accessions daily. The announcement of a filtration plant to cost $35,000 was calmly received in Brainerd, but any other town would be excited over a building project which can be financed by Water and Light Board earnings and which requires no bond issue, no certificates of indebtedness. It attests to the financial good standing of the water and light utility of the city.

The school board is proceeding with condemnation proceedings, first step to the new Junior High school. The construction of this building will give employment to local labor and will use much local material.

There is a healthy tone in the real estate market, in residential and lake property and many inquiries are received. There is a noticeable trend of inquiries for lake cottages and resort reservations and indicates that many are preparing to spend whole summers in the Brainerd lake country.

One visitor at the Dispatch office said, "You spend one summer in the Brainerd lake country and no other section will win you away from Brainerd."

Camp Ripley and its many guardsmen, their friends and relatives is another potential tourist supply center. No one can tell how many will be attracted to the Brainerd Lake Region on account of this great military development which eventually will bring to this area the national guard from seven states and the regular army too.

A new thing in resort business is a growing number of tourist prospects who at an early date are touring the lake country and viewing cottages and accommodations before the season starts so as to be able to exercise selection before the rush is on.

The psychology regarding recreation has changed materially since the past year. Whereas formerly families viewed business conditions and regulated their outings accordingly, this season families will not be put off and Father and Mother and the Children are bent on having their vacation in spite of the business outlook, be it good, moderate or indifferent. And on outing in the Brainerd Lake Region is an investment in health and recreation.

Drive Slowly in Fresh Road Oil

WITH so much road construction in progress or in contemplation, one should use caution when driving where road oil or tar is being applied, according to a warning sounded by a State Highway bulletin. The warning is timely, since Commissioner C. M. Babcock has announced that the department will undertake 678 miles of new bituminous treatment on graveled roads besides retreatment of 826 miles of highways previously treated. The work is distributed in every section of the state, and almost every driver will come in contact with some of the work during the summer.

Additional precautions will be taken this year to protect traffic, the department announces. The 48 hours per week rule will be changed to a strict eight hours per day in the case of oil and tar distributors, so as to give time to cover all fresh oil or tar with gravel the same day. The machinery spreading gravel will follow the distributor as closely as possible.

Nevertheless there will be some uncovered sections part of the day, and even after the material is covered with gravel, there will be some tendency to spatter. But the danger of slipping in the fresh oil, or spattering the car, will be eliminated if all drivers will slow down to about 15 miles per hour. Serious accidents often occur when motorists drive too fast or recklessly where bituminous work is in progress.

Road oil or tar spattered on cars may be removed by applying a mixture of one part lubricating oil to four parts of gasoline. This should be allowed to remain on the spattered surface about five minutes, then washed off with mild soap and water. It should be done before the oil or tar is hardened.

Bituminous work will start in several places this month, and continue through the months of June, July and August. "Slow" signs will be posted where work is in progress. Failure to heed the warning may be disastrous.

Pocket Battleships

GERMANY, restricted by treaty requirements, is unable to build any very large ships.

So the country exercised its ingenuity, cut down weights where possible and produced a baby war boat which combines features which raise its effectiveness to a par with the first class fighting ships of any class.

When its machine work and defense installations are completed a year from now, the cruiser will stand as a tribute to German craftsmanship. The 10,000 ton cruiser will be propelled by the largest Diesel engines in the world and will have a cruising range of 10,000 miles without the necessity of refueling.

The Diesel engines are regarded as one of the marvels of the development of this type of ship. They weigh less than one-sixth the old Diesel engines' weight, yet have more power and speed. They are installed in two independent and interchangeable blocks.

Another problem in weight-saving was in the armor plates. A saving of 550 tons was made in the metal work alone, experts said. Bolts were discarded in favor of electro-welding in much of the construction. The hull itself consists of armor plate, but a secondary, or inside-hull, is used both as armor and to support the superstructure of the ship.

THE attempt to boom Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth for the vice presidency seems to have died down. The Red Wing Republican was active in suggesting the candidacy of the widow of the late speaker of the House.

NEXT to losing a big fish, the hardest thing to bear is to hear another fellow brag about his fishing exploits.

WOOL blankets at the summer cottages come in handy on cold nights.

The Era of Underground Telephone Cable started with a locomotive plowed trench

IN 1862 near Attleborough, Massachusetts, telephone men undertook to place telephone cable underground. To dig the trench, a locomotive was hitched to an ordinary farm plow. Five plows were jerked apart before the five-mile trench was finished. Wires wrapped with rubber and gutta-percha were placed in the furrow and covered with earth by a huge wooden drag.

The experiment succeeded, not brilliantly, but well enough to encourage telephone engineers to go ahead. Improvements were made . . . wires wrapped in paper . . . sheathing of lead . . . then lead alloy to increase tensile strength . . . more wires added in a cable.

Today this Company* has many thousands miles of wire in cable, some underground and some carried on poles. Cable is used where the number of wires required and other conditions make it more economical and otherwise satisfactory than open wire.

Development of telephone cable is one of many ways in which telephone service has been improved and made more reliable. Telephone instruments, switchboards, other equipment also have been changed to make service better . . . methods have been improved continually. The efforts of this Company are directed towards providing better and better telephone service . . . service that will meet the needs of its customers in every way and at all times.

NORTHWESTERN BELL TELEPHONE COMPANY

*The Northwestern Bell Telephone Company, which operates in the states of Iowa, Minnesota, Nebraska, North and South Dakota, is an Associated Company of the Bell System. It owns and operates more than 650,000 telephones. Its lines connect with more than 900,000 telephones of other companies in these five states and with nearly 30,000,000 telephones throughout the United States and in foreign countries. It employs more than 12,000 men and women.

Our Policy: The most telephone service and the best at the least cost to the public.

"MURDER AT EAGLE'S NEST"

By WINIFRED VAN DUZER

The body of Baroness von Wiese is found in the garden of Eagle's Nest, Emily Hardy's palatial country home, wrapped in Mary Frost's shawl. Preceding her murder, the Baroness had given a note to the butler. This he denies. She had also quarreled with her maid, Mary Frost, returning for her shawl, at midnight, saw it on Laura Allan. Laura, however, claims Mary entered the garden wearing the shawl. "Bim" Martin, young newspaper reporter, fiancée of Assistant Police Chief Walker Vance, learns Laura was responsible for the broken engagement of her own sister and Ted Frost, Mary's husband. Ted had also flirted with the Baroness. "Bim" observing the butler dancing, wonders about him. She learns from Carl Carey, New York reporter, that the Baroness was Margot Belle, famous dancer. The supposed stolen jewels of the Baroness are found in the Baron's care. Vance thinks Ted Frost may have committed the crime, mistaking the Baroness for his wife of whom he is jealous.

CHAPTER XXVII
YOU were up there at 3 o'clock the morning after the murder?"

Steve shifted his cap to the other corner of his head and moved a stub of pencil from behind his right ear to a place behind his left. "Guess it was later'n three that trip; guess it musta been half past or better. Nope—musta been nearly four 'cause it was getting light. I seen lights up at Eagle's Nest but I don't go in there, I leave the milk at the gate-house and the help takes it in." "See lights anywhere else, buddy?"

Reason For Doubt

"Let's see, Trent's was dark and I don't deliver to that Baird fella. Frosts—they was dark, too, but they was just getting in."

Bim stirred and Walter's face went blank. "You say, Mr. Frost coming home at four o'clock, Steve? Sure about that?"

"Sure I'm sure," the young man declared with a touch of truculence. "Say, I seen that bimbo enough times zig-zagging home at four G. M. to know him, and I? Only he wasn't stowed that morning any to speak of; leastways he got out of his boat 'stead of falling out like some times. Remembered to shut off his engine to get that more'n somewhat with him."

Bim was wondering if Walter recalled—as she did very definitely—Mary's assertion that Ted put his car in the garage at midnight while she went in and prepared a lunch for them to eat before retiring. Walter's next question indicated that he, too, was thinking of Mary's story:

"Frost let the car stand on the drive, did he, Steve?"

"Yep, guess so. I laid up there a few minutes for a smoke and they was no sign of him coming back after they went in."

"After they went in?" There was someone with Frost?"

"Ain't that what I been telling you? Sure; they was him and his wife."

"But Steve," Bim interposed, "You're positive it was Mrs. Frost? Did you see her face?"

"What'd I want see her face for? It was her all right." "Don't forget all that," Walter told the milkman. "We may ask to hear it again."

"Not me," Young Steve grinned, swaggering with importance. "It's like I'm saying, that gang's due for a bust."

"There was no sign of him coming back after they went in," said Steve.

He went away, lugging his wire basket and his milk bottles, while Walter and Bim looked at each other—Bim with dismay and Walter with grimness.

"I knew she was holding out on us," he said. Then, seeing Bim's concern, "I'm sorry, honey."

"Oh, it's all right. It's got to be, Mary's only trying to cover for Ted—I'm sure of that. But what is it she's trying to cover?"

The inquest, Walter said, would be brief. Doctor Sankey meant to question some of those who had been at Em Hardy's dinner party; this was not strictly within his province but the D. A.'s office and the police had agreed to allow the coroner to go ahead. He would be back in an hour or two and if Bim wanted to wait there might be something new.

Bim did wait, going over and over the murder mystery during Walter's absence. There were so many unexplained phases dangling like loose ends in every direction. No doubt, Walter and Mr. Reynolds would gather all of these up at the proper time but to her they were most confusing.

Dual Personalities

Out of all that mess only one fact seemed to emerge clearly and hold a central position in her mind and this was the fact that most of the people she had known all her life and called her friends were not at all what she always had thought them. There were, as Walter had said, two of everybody; the persons she saw and talked with and loved and then the other persons—the real ones—behind the masks.

Too bad, all this disillusionment. But such, no doubt, was life.

It was nearly four o'clock when Walter returned and he shook his head in response to Bim's eager inquiry.

"Nothing worth while came out," he told her. "The stories tallied with what's already been told. The verdict was 'shot and killed by a person or persons unknown.' Doc Sankey had got a stenographic statement from the Baron—he's still in bed—and about all he had to say was that he'd be ruined. Seems to take himself pretty seriously . . . Bim, did you make anything out of the laundry mark on that sheet?"

"A curve and a straight line. It was a letter at the beginning of the smudge and it might have been a B or a D or a P or an R."

Walter nodded and removed from an envelope a smudged piece of linen which proved to be the corner cut out from the sheet. They studied it together, but the letters were undecipherable; yet the mark taken as a whole possessed a certain coherence after the manner of a hieroglyphic.

"I'll look out for it," Bim stated. "There must be other marks like this somewhere. What did Mary and Ted say?"

Nothing But Lies

"Lied of course," Walter grinned wryly. "Mary stuck to her story and Ted confirmed it. Especially the part of about putting the car away. I'd say they hate each other, honey."

"Oh, no—"

"Well, the Doc treated them rough. Asked what they quarreled about that night. Mary tried to pass it off—would have gotten away with it too—only Frost swelled up and began to sputter. He hadn't any feeling against telling. He said, 'What do we always quarrel about? Her infernal jealousy, is what?'"

"Oh, poor Mary!" "Yeah, I guess that's what everyone thought. She looked as if she'd fall over for a minute. Then your saucy friend Imogene made it worse."

"Imogene? But she didn't know anything about them—"

"Claims she did. Claims now that she overheard Mary and Ted landing on each other when they were going—that is when Ted was getting out just before he rushed away and left Mary waiting at the church. Imogene claims she overheard Mary tell her husband he'd be sorry about something—she didn't hear what it was."

"Then, according to Imogene, Ted said 'Who'll make me sorry—you?' And Mary came back with 'Perhaps.' Imogene was proud of herself for remembering."

"You really think she remembered?"

"Well, they did quarrel; Mary admitted that. The point is—"

"What, Wally?" Bim asked with a sinking at her heart.

"The point is, did Mary set out to make Ted sorry and if so, how? And I'd like to know what it was Frost meant to do and if he finished doing it when he and his wife sneaked in at four o'clock in the morning!"

"MURDER AT EAGLE'S NEST"

By WINIFRED VAN DUZER

The body of Baroness von Wiese is found in the garden of Eagle's Nest, Emily Hardy's palatial country home, wrapped in Mary Frost's shawl. Preceding her murder, the Baroness had given a note to the butler. This he denies. She had also quarreled with her maid, Mary Frost, returning for her shawl, at midnight, saw it on Laura Allan. Laura, however, claims Mary entered the garden wearing the shawl. "Bim," Martin, young newspaper reporter, fiancée of Assistant Police Chief Walter Vance, learns Laura was responsible for the broken engagement of her own sister and Ted Frost, Mary's husband. Ted had also flirted with the Baroness. "Bim" observing the butler dancing, wonders about him. She learns from Carl Carey, New York reporter, that the Baroness was Margot Belle, famous dancer. The supposed stolen jewels of the Baroness are found in the Baron's care. Vance thinks Ted Frost may have committed the crime, mistaking the Baroness for his wife of whom he is jealous.

CHAPTER XXVII

"YOU were up there at 3 o'clock the morning after the murder?"

Steve shifted his cap to the other corner of his head and moved a stub of pencil from behind his right ear to a place behind his left. "Guess it was later'n three that trip; guess it musta been half past or better. Nope—musta been nearly four 'cause it was getting light. I seen lights up at Eagle's Nest but I don't go in there, I leave the milk at the gate-house and the light takes it in."

"See lights anywhere else, buddy?"

Reason For Doubt

"Let's see. Trent's was dark and I don't deliver to that Baird fellow. Frosts—they was dark, too, but they was just getting in."

Bim stirred and Walter's face went blank. "You saw Mr. Frost coming home at four o'clock, Steve? Sure about that?"

"Sure, I'm sure," the young man declared with a touch of truculence. "Say, I seen that bimbo enough times zig-zagging home at four G. M. to know him, ain't I? Only he wasn't stewed that morning any to speak of; leastways he got out of his boat 'stead of falling out like some times. Remembered to shut off his engine to and that's more'n somewhat with him."

Bim was wondering if Walter recalled—as she did very definitely—Mary's assertion that Ted put his car in the garage at midnight while she went in and prepared a lunch for them to eat before retiring. Walter's next question indicated that he, too, was thinking of Mary's story:

"Frost let the car stand on the drive, did he, Steve?"

"Yep, guess so. I laid up there a few minutes for a smoke and they was no sign of him coming back after they went in."

"After they went in? There was someone with Frost?"

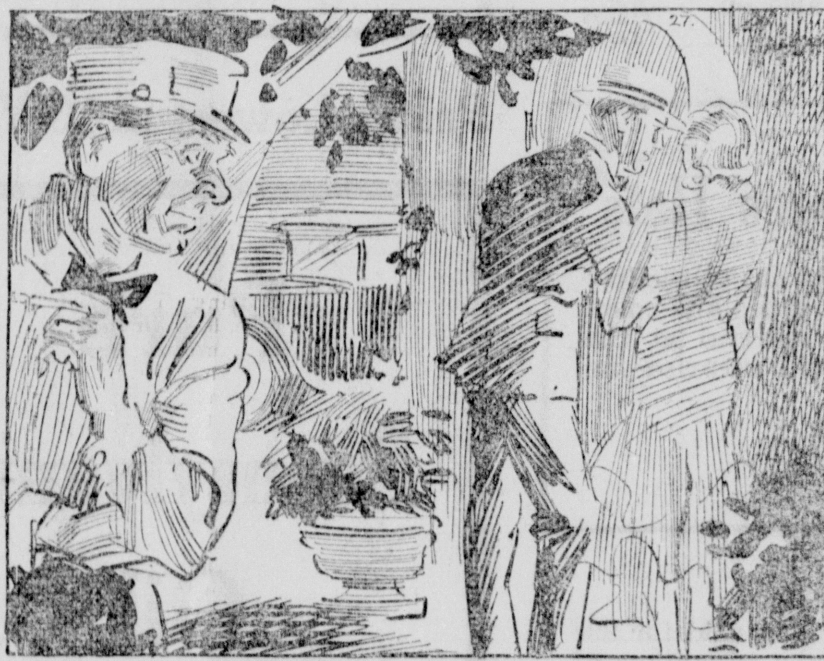

"Ain't that what I been telling you? Sure; they was him and his wife."

"But Steve," Bim interposed, "you're positive it was Mrs. Frost? Did you see her face?"

"What'd I wanta see her face for? It was her all right."

"Don't forget all this," Walter told the milkman. "We may ask to hear it again."

"Not me," Young Steve grinned, swaggering with importance. "It's like I'm saying, that gang's due for a bust."

"There was no sign of him coming back after they went in," said Steve.

He went away, lugging his wire basket and his milk bottles, while Walter and Bim looked at each other—Bim with dismay and Walter with grimness.

"I knew she was holding out on us," he said. Then, seeing Bim's concern, "I'm sorry, honey."

"Oh, it's all right. It's got to be. Mary's only trying to cover for Ted—I'm sure of that. But what is it she's trying to cover?"

The inquest, Walter said, would be brief. Doctor Sankey meant to question some of those who had been at Em Hardy's dinner party; this was not strictly within his province but the D. A.'s office and the police had agreed to allow the coroner to go ahead. He would be back in an hour or two and if Bim wanted to wait there might be something new.

Bim did wait, going over and over the murder mystery during Walter's absence. There were so many unexplained phases dangling like loose ends in every direction. No doubt, Walter and Mr. Reynolds would gather all of these up at the proper time but to her they were most confusing.

Dual Personalities

Out of all that mess only one fact seemed to emerge clearly and hold a central position in her mind and this was the fact that most of the people she had known all her life and called her friends were not at all what she always had thought them. There were, as Walter had said, two of every body; the persons she saw and talked with and loved and then the other persons—the real ones—behind the masks.

Too bad, all this disillusionment. But such, no doubt, was life. It was nearly four o'clock when Walter returned and he shook his head in response to Bim's eager inquiry.

"Nothing worth while came out," he told her. "The stories tallied with what's already been told. The verdict was 'shot and killed by a person or persons unknown.' Doc Sankey had got a stenographic statement from the Baron—he's still in bed—and about all he had to say was that he'd be ruined. Seems to take himself pretty seriously. . . . Bim, did you make anything out of the laundry mark on that sheet?"

"A curve and a straight line. It was a letter at the beginning of the smudge and it might have been a B or a D or a P or an R."

Walter nodded and removed from an envelope a smudged piece of linen which proved to be the corner cut out from the sheet.

They studied it together, but the letters were undecipherable; yet the mark taken as a whole possessed a certain coherence after the manner of a hieroglyphic.

"I'll look out for it," Bim stated. "There must be other marks like this somewhere. What did Mary and Ted say?"

Nothing But Lies

"Lied of course," Walter grinned wryly. "Mary stuck to her story and Ted confirmed it. Especially the part of about putting the car away. I'd say they hate each other, honey."

"Oh, no—"

"Well, the Doc treated them rough. Asked what they quarreled about that night. Mary tried to pass it off—would have gotten away with it too—only Frost swelled up and began to sputter. He hadn't any feeling against telling. He said, 'What do we always quarrel about? Her infernal jealousy, is what!'"

"Oh, poor Mary!"

"Yeah, I guess that's what everyone thought. She looked as if she'd fall over for a minute. Then your saucy friend Imogene made it worse."

"Imogene? But she didn't know anything about them—"

"Claims she did. Claims now that she overheard Mary and Ted landing on each other when they were going—that is when Ted was getting out just before he rushed away and left Mary waiting at the church. Imogene claims she overheard Mary tell her husband he'd be sorry about something—she didn't hear what it was."

"Then, according to Imogene, Ted said 'Who'll make me sorry—you?' And Mary came back with 'Perhaps.' Imogene was proud of herself for remembering."

"You really think she remembered?"

"Well, they did quarrel; Mary admitted that. The point is—"

"What, Wally?" Bim asked with a sinking at her heart.

"The point is, did Mary set out to make Ted sorry and if so, how? And I'd like to know what Mr. Frost meant to do and if he be finished doing it when he and his wife sneaked in at four o'clock in the morning?"

The Era of Underground Telephone Cable started with a locomotive plowed trench

IN 1832 near Attleborough, Massachusetts, telephone men undertook to place telephone cable underground. To dig the trench, a locomotive was hitched to an ordinary farm plow. Five plows were jerked apart before the five-mile trench was finished. Wires wrapped with rubber and gutta-percha were placed in the furrow and covered with earth by a huge wooden drag.

Plowing a Cable Trench with locomotive power - 1832

The experiment succeeded, not brilliantly, but well enough to encourage telephone engineers to go ahead. Improvements were made . . . wires wrapped in paper . . . sheathing of lead . . . then lead alloy to increase tensile strength . . . more wires added in a cable.

Today this Company* has many thousands miles of wire in cable, some underground and some carried on poles. Cable is used where the number of wires required and other conditions make it more economical and otherwise satisfactory than open wire.

Development of telephone cable is one of many ways in which telephone service has been improved and made more reliable. Telephone instruments, switchboards, other equipment also have been changed to make service better . . . methods have been improved continually. The efforts of this Company are directed towards providing better and better telephone service . . . service that will meet the needs of its customers in every way and at all times.

NORTHWESTERN BELL TELEPHONE COMPANY

* The Northwestern Bell Telephone Company, which operates in the states of Iowa, Minnesota, Nebraska, North and South Dakota, is an Associated Company of the Bell System. It owns and operates more than 650,000 telephones. Its lines connect with more than 200,000 telephones of other companies in these five states and with nearly 30,000,000 others throughout the United States and in foreign countries. NAME NEW HIGH SCHOOL CAPTAINS AT ATHLETIC BANQUET

FASTEST TEAM SINCE BUSH DAYS TO INVADE FALLS

ELMER FOSTER IN BASKETBALL AND HOHMAN IN TRACK

TOASTMASTERS OF THE EVENING ARE SUPT. W. C. COBB, COACH BILL DAMMANN

ADDRESS OF THE EVENING IS GIVEN BY CARL ZAPPE ON VALUE OF ATHLETICS

At the athletic banquet held at the Washington high school last evening, attended by 100, two new captains were announced to carry on the torch of progress, Elmer Foster in basketball and Bill Hohman in track. Both made winning talks accepting the honor conferred and promising teams worthy the fame and name of their alma mater.

There were two toastmasters, Supt. W. C. Cobb and Coach Bill Dammann. The speaker of the evening was Carl Zappe and out of a rich fund of experience he told of the value of athletics throughout life. He stressed the value of early training, from grades on through high school and thence college or university, and on through life.

Consistent training prepares one not only for the battle of gymnasium and field, but the wider and more important battle of life.

Things you overcome in athletics, you meet with in real life, said he. Conscientious training develops poise, form and character, said the speaker. It teaches correct habits of living, right hours of sleep and activity, diet, etc.

One gains the determination to accomplish things, to better one's record, to do better than the other fellow, and your example in turn stimulates others. Courage, grit, tenacity of purpose are fostered. It promotes quick thinking, quick action, presence of mind, self confidence, self control.

You learn the value of group work.

of subordinating yourself when necessary to work in harmony.

Mr. Zappe drew many illustrations from his own life and that of Zupke, noted University of Illinois coach and athlete. Zappe and Zupke lived as neighbors in Milwaukee and both made marks in the athletic world. Zappe had to overcome constitutional weakness and did so successfully that he made hammer throwing one of the University of Wisconsin's big events in field sports.

Mr. Zappe's talk was followed with deep interest by the assemblage and proved very instructive.

Speakers at the banquet included Supt. Cobb, Rolf Melloy, Ben Taylor, Wm. Dammann, Nathan Schuetz, Geo. Irvine, Ralph Squier, James Garvey, Elmer Foster and "the final gun," Carl Zappe, as the menu card said.

Honors were paid the participants in all sports and attention was called to the boys and girls who heard little but the shouting, saw nothing of the games and industriously sold tickets and did other work necessary to make the games successful.

Ben Taylor gave an entertaining account of the track and field season. The boys won the invitational meet at Aitkin and made four of the eight records at the Little Falls meet.

William Dammann voiced his slogan of a sport for everybody, and everybody in sport. He recorded progress made in football, basketball and the other sports he was adding to the school program.

Supt. Cobb paid a tribute to the athletic committee of the school board who were present. Chairman Sundberg and his co-workers, Messrs. Whitlock and Forsberg.

Announcement was made that the football captain will not be chosen until fall.

The dinner was prepared by Miss Bertha Filk, home economics teacher, assisted by Miss Mabel Mathis and their group of co-workers. The menu included fruit cocktail, roast pork, fried apples, baked stuffed potatoes, creamed beans, graham and white bread, rolls, celery and olives, apple pie a la mode and coffee. Cut flowers and football tokens decorated the tables. The cafeteria was an ideal place for the banquet with ample seating room and acoustic properties very good, enabling one to hear every word spoken.

PETERSON PICKS STRONG LINEUP TO OPEN SEASON

LIENHART AND ANDERSON TO DO BATTERY WORK; HEAVY HITTERS ARE FAVORED

HUNDREDS OF FANS TO SEE THE BATTLE SUNDAY IN RENEWAL OF OLD-TIME BASEBALL

Lester Peterson, manager of Brainerd's 1931 baseball team, most classic since the days of "Bullet Joe" Bush, announced today this strong lineup would oppose Little Falls Sunday, May 24, at 3 P. M. at the Falls fair grounds in the opening major game of the district:

Catcher—Lienhart, St. Paul, player in the Twin Cities Saturday Baseball League. Hard hitter, peppy and a prize receiver.

Pitcher—Harold Anderson, Granite Falls, Minn., high school coach, formerly with teams at Fargo, Steele, N. D., Waverly and Granite Falls, Minn. Lost a 5 to 4 game to Little Falls last year, blamed to errors. Property of the St. Louis Cardinals. Speed ball demon and has been in shape for the past two weeks.

First base—Stanton, Onamia. Has played ball with Little Falls and in the Southern Minnesota league. Is a veteran, a heavy clouter and a good defensive man.

Second base—LaBeau, St. Paul. Plays in the Saturday league, team mate of Lienhart, has played with Bemidji, Walker, Detroit Lakes and Fargo. Is well known throughout the northwest.

Short stop—Wald, Wadena, has played ball with Bertha, 1927-28-29. In 1930 he played with Detroit Lakes. Is one of the outstanding shortstops in the western part of the state.

Third base—Yourish, Flansburg, played in the Three Eye league, Central Minnesota league, and in the southern part of the state. Very fast, good stickler.

Left field—Pomeroy, Crosby, considered one of the best outfielders in these parts. Turned down an offer to join up with Lincoln in the Nebraska State league. Good hitter and fast in the field.

Center field—Nutting, Brainerd. Well known local outfielder and hitter. Saved more than one game for Brainerd by spearing "impossibles."

Right field—Clark, Fargo. Has been shifted from first base to right field. Very good hitter. Played with Steele, N. D., with Hap Felch's All Stars in Montana. Played also in Ohio and Indiana.

Utility men—Loom, veteran; Richmond, relief hurler; Ringer, Uddenberg, Brainerd; and John Butera of Crosby, relief catcher.

Loom will also act as assistant manager. The game should attract hundreds of fans from the Brainerd area providing the weather is good.

This team has been selected by Peterson after considering each player's past reputation.

PENNEYS BEAT WARD IN OVERTIME GAME

ERRORS RESPONSIBLE FOR TAIL-ENDERS' DEFEAT; WERNER PITCHES NICE GAME

CITY D-BALL STANDINGS

The Penney kittenball team is riding the crest of its sixth straight victory in city league competition today by virtue of an overtime victory by a 7-6 count over the tail-end Montgomery Ward team at the N. P. ball grounds last night. About 200 people saw the game.

McIntosh started on the mound for Penneys but was removed after the second inning; by which time Wards had pounded out a 5-1 lead. Foster then took up the hurling duties for Penneys and after allowing one run in the third inning, held Wards in check for the remainder of the game.

Wards held their 6-1 lead for four innings, but then fielding errors and some timely hit by Penneys began to whittle down the margin. Penneys scored three runs in the fifth and two more in the sixth to knot the count at six all. The seventh inning was scoreless for both teams and not until the first overtime inning was a Penney runner able to cross the plate with the winning run.

Werner pitched an exceptionally good game for Wards and with normal support might have won the game.

Trask formed the other half of the Ward battery. The Penney battery was composed of McIntosh, Foster and Rofidal.

The manager of the Ward team today asked for practice games with either league teams or teams outside the city league.

The Season's Sensations

By HARDIN BURNLEY

STARS of yesteryears, both recent and remote, now glisten brightly in the baseball skies soon after the 1931 season had opened—outshining on the whole even the most dazzling of the new rookie crop. "Wes" Ferrell of the Cleveland Indians set the seal of greatness on his promise shown last year by shutting out the St. Louis Browns without a hit on April 30. "Old Master" Rogers Hornsby slugged three homers in one game against the Pittsburgh Pirates, and 35-year-old Harry "Socks" Seibold of the Boston Braves is one of the best pitchers in the National League at this writing!!!

Ferrell's feat marked the first hitless pitching in the American League since Ted Lyons of the Chicago White Sox blanked the Boston Red Sox on Aug. 21, 1926. "Wes" did not hurl the perfect game; i. e., one in which no opponent reaches first base. He walked three and a trio got on by errors, one of which is still causing much fan argument over the charge that lenient scoring converted a scratch hit into an error.

The situation was this: In the eighth inning Ferrell's brother, Richard, St. Louis catcher, hit to deep short and beat Hunnefeld's throw to first. The official scorer ruled it an error. Whatever it was, the incident helps reveal how on-the-level baseball can be. Think of a brother act (and they're loving brothers) like that at the crucial moment of an important game! Better get those boys together on one team. "Ferrell and Ferrell" surely would prove battery headlines anywhere!

As to Hornsby, he's started many a season in able fashion, but never more potently than this year. During the Winter murmurs were heard that "Rajah" was about through. Some didn't like him for succeeding the popular Joe McCarthy as manager of the Cubs and others don't like him anyway. So the anvil chorus got busy—but thus far "Rajah" has done the effective pounding, as his batting average shows.

The success of "Socks" Seibold pleases all fans. He's been a master for many years, but always with a weak club. His real class has long been overlooked except by real critics.

Nation Observes Red Cross Fiftieth Birthday

FIFTY years ago, on the evening of May 21, 1881, a group of distinguished men and women assembled in the parlor of the Washington, D. C., home of Miss Clara Barton, famed for her volunteer services during the Civil War, and signed their names to

CLARA BARTON'S RELIEF IN CUBA INSPIRES POEM

"I am with the wounded," Clara Barton cabled from Havana, Cuba, after surrender of Santiago. James Clarence Harvey, a poet was inspired to write the following lines for "The Christian Herald," based on Miss Barton's message:

"I am with the wounded, flashed along the wire
From the island of Cuba, swept with sword and fire.
Angel, sweet of mercy, may your cross of red
Cheer the wounded living; bless the wounded dead."

"I am with the starving," let the message run
From this stricken island, when this task is done;
Food and money plenty wait at your command.
Give in generous measure; fill each outstretched hand."

"I am with the happy," this we long to hear
From the island of Cuba, trembling now in fear.
May the great disaster touch the hearts of men.
And, in God's great mercy bring back peace again."

incorporation papers for the American Association of the Red Cross. Miss Barton was elected the first president.

Thus came into being the first Red Cross organization in the United States. The principle since adopted by all of the civilized world had become operative seventeen years before in 1864 when twelve nations drafted and signed the Treaty of Geneva, and created the Red Cross.

The golden jubilee of the American Red Cross is being observed throughout the nation this year. A half dozen dates, in addition to the one of May 21, when Miss Barton's friends started the ball rolling in the meeting in her home, mark the progression of the infant society. These reveal a year's effort until ultimately by proclamation of President Arthur, March 1, 1882, the United States adhered to the Treaty of Geneva, which guaranteed protection of wounded in battle, and provided a neutral flag for doctors, nurses and hospitals during warfare.

Chartered in 1905

It was twenty-five years later, in 1905, under the leadership of President Theodore Roosevelt, Secretary of War Taft and Miss Mabel T. Boardman, who is today the secretary of the society, that a Congressional charter was given the American Red Cross, establishing its status as a semi-governmental agency, and making it the recognized instrument in the United States for enforcement of the first and all subsequent treaties of Geneva. Its powers were broadened to include peacetime duties such as giving aid to the distressed in time of disaster, health and safety work, and service to men in the armed forces.

"These societies, by their permanent existence, could also render great services at the time of epidemics, floods, great fires and other catastrophes," wrote Henri Dunant, the young Swiss, describing his vision of a world-wide humanitarianism, in 1859. "The humane motive which would have created them would instigate them to act on all occasions in which their labors could be exercised."

Today, virtually every Red Cross society in the world is organized on the basis of this peace-time work, as well as its war-time obligations.

When the first conference met in Geneva in 1864 two Americans, George C. Fogg, minister to Switzerland, and Charles S. F. Bowles of the U. S. Sanitary Commission, stationed in Europe to buy supplies, were unofficial observers for our Government. When the treaty was drafted, they were without authority to sign, however.

Bowles had presented to the conference charts and maps of the work of the Sanitary Commission, which was a volunteer society of civilians organized to assist soldiers in the army of the Union.

Bowles, Fogg and Dr. Henry W. Bellows, president of the Sanitary Commission, strove for years worked her way to the very front in the battle lines drawn around Washington. She emerged from the Civil War with the aura of an angel of mercy. Health failing her, she went to Switzerland, and there met many distinguished persons, who were deeply interested in the Red Cross—an idealistic principle hitherto unknown to her, although in her own capacity she had been following the same vision in her work on the battlefields in the Civil War.

to obtain recognition by the U. S. Government of the treaty, but failed.

Clara Barton's Efforts
And then entered Clara Barton, a frail former teacher and government clerk, past forty years of age, who as a volunteer had worked her way to the very front in the battle lines drawn around Washington. She emerged from the Civil War with the aura of an angel of mercy. Health failing her, she went to Switzerland, and there met many distinguished persons, who were deeply interested in the Red Cross—an idealistic principle hitherto unknown to her, although in her own capacity she had been following the same vision in her work on the battlefields in the Civil War.

Returning to her home, she rallied her friends and took up the fight for recognition. Under President Garfield, she met her first encouragement. James G. Blaine, secretary of state, saw immediately the wisdom of signing the treaty. Garfield's tragic death by assassination intervened, but under President Arthur the treaty was signed.

Clara Barton had won her fight. For twenty-three years she continued as head of the American Red Cross, resigning in 1904, or as she said, "laying down her weary burdens." Her life, an arduous one, was devoted to relief work, beginning with the 1881 forest fires in Michigan and continuing with relief efforts of such magnitude as the Johnstown flood, famine relief in Armenia, the Spanish-American war, the Galveston flood and many other catastrophes. In 1912, Miss Barton died, in her ninety-first year.

Additional Stop Decried as Further Safety Feature to Motorists

An additional feature in eliminating traffic accidents in the city has been introduced by the installation of "stop" signs at the intersection of Front street and South Sixth street. Things to note when you drive the new Pontiac

The moment you step into this car you will begin discovering pleasant things. First, how easily Pontiac handles—answering your lightest touch. The slender steel-and-rubber wheel invites a "finger grip"—and that's quite sufficient. You use little effort in braking or clutching.

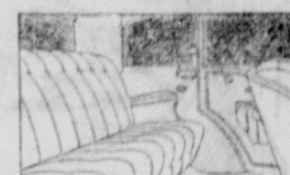

You'll remark the quick getaway . . . the rapid acceleration . . . the smoothly sustained speed. Pontiac has a 60-horsepower engine so ample in size that it need never be overworked. Hence it stays smooth.

You'll experience a new riding ease. Springs are deep; seat-cushions agreeably form-fitting, of course. But more important, Pontiac's chassis is cushioned with live rubber at more than 40 points.

You'll sense extra security in Pontiac. The famous Fisher Body wood-and-steel construction is snugly insulated against outside cold, heat, and dampness. Cowl and windshield pillars are built in one piece—a leak-proof, rattle-free construction. The first touch on the big brakes tells the story of unusual stopping power.

You'll find the Pontiac interior tastefully fitted, appointed, finished. Rich long-wearing mohair or whipcord in the closed cars—select leathers in the open models. In all, an atmosphere of fine craftsmanship pleasing to your pride.

Summing up, you'll agree that Pontiac Six is indeed a happy medium—the kind of car you want at the price you want to pay.

The city council has appropriated $150 towards the project. The remainder of the cost will be met by the property owners.

Successful bidders for grading and curbing of N. First street between Juniper street and Ivy street and Juniper street between North First street and North Second street have been named by the city council as follows: curbing, Thompson Bros., $582, laborers to be paid 50 cents an hour; grading, Seymour Roberts, $245, laborers to be paid between 40 and 50 cents an hour.

The project includes 600 cubic yards of earth and 1750 linear feet of curb. Included in other city work are the following city streets: culvert repair at 13th and Quince streets; grading with cinders at 11th and Quince streets; repairs on the west side of 17th street and Laurel and repairs at 10th and Ivy streets. The repairs will be made under the direction of City Engineer R. T. Campbell.

The grading of the west side of Vine street between 5th and 6th streets will be taken up separately. A petition will be made to the council for its repair.

Purchase Belts for Firemen

Four hose belts for the safety of firemen in scaling ladders are to be purchased by the city at a cost of $3 apiece.

The belts will serve the purpose of gripping the hose to permit the fireman free use of his hands. Ropes may also be attached to the belt to provide safety to the firemen in entering blazing or smoke filled buildings. In the event he is overcome, firemen can reach him by following the rope or can pull him to safety.

Things to note when you drive the new Pontiac

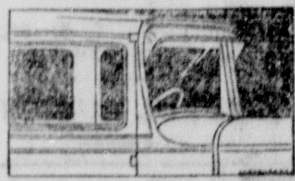

The moment you step into this car you will begin discovering pleasant things. First, how easily Pontiac handles—answering your lightest touch. The slender steel-and-rubber wheel invites a "finger grip"—and that's quite sufficient. You use little effort in braking or clutching.

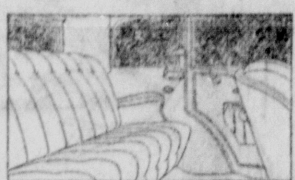

You'll remark the quick getaway . . . the rapid acceleration . . . the smoothly sustained speed. Pontiac has a 60-horsepower engine so ample in size that it need never be overworked. Hence it stays smooth.

You'll experience a new riding ease. Springs are deep; seat-cushions agreeably form-fitting, of course. But more important, Pontiac's chassis is cushioned with live rubber at more than 40 points.

You'll sense extra security in Pontiac. The famous Fisher Body wood-and-steel construction is snugly insulated against outside cold, heat, and dampness. Cowl and windshield pillars are built in one piece—a leak-proof, rattle-free construction. The first touch on the big brakes tells the story of unusual stopping power.

You'll find the Pontiac interior tastefully fitted, appointed, finished. Rich long-wearing mohair or whipcord in the closed cars—select leathers in the open models. In all, an atmosphere of fine craftsmanship pleasing to your pride.

Summing up, you'll agree that Pontiac Six is indeed a happy medium—the kind of car you want at the price you want to pay.

of iron through its forging machines. The method used in building the cars is much the same as employed by automobile manufacturers except that in place of moving platforms and overhead trolleys, steel cables operated by "car pullers" move the cars forward to the various locations or "spots"—some twenty in all. At each spot are located gangs who perform certain definite operations. Starting at the east end of the steel car shop where the construction of the steel underframe is commenced, the cars are "pulled" or progressed through the shops at intervals of 96 minutes to the final paint and stenciling "spot" at the west end of the shops; that is to say the partly completed car stops at each location for that length of time, and as the various operations are synchronously timed it has the effect of turning out a completed car every 96 minutes. In this connection it was interesting to learn that the continuous operation method of building freight cars was in use in railroad shops long before it was adopted by automobile makers.

The above program has added 163 men to the shop forces and this addition to our employed population, with increased earnings of over $17,000 a month, will be of immense benefit to the business of our community.

HEMORRHAGE CAUSED ARLENE DRAVES' DEATH

Valparaiso, Ind., May 20.—(UP)—An extraordinary hemorrhage, similar to concussion of the brain, caused Arlene Draves' death, not the alleged criminal attack by Virgil Kirkland, Dr. F. E. Dittner, defense medical expert, testified today at Kirkland's trial on murder charges.

He was the first of the medical experts through whom the 20-year-old athlete's attorneys will fight to prove that Arlene was killed by injuries in a fall they contend was accidental.

Mrs. Eva Madera, who was with her husband at the drinking party where Arlene became unconscious and finally died; Alex Thomas, Gary policeman, who talked to Kirkland in a luncheon room during the party, and Thomas' son, Lowell, also testified.

Heirs to Baker Fortune

George F. Baker, noted financier, divided up the bulk of his $75,000,000 estate, which was much smaller than generally anticipated, among his son, George F. Baker, Jr. (lower left), who received approximately $60,000,000; his daughter, Mrs. William Goadby Loew (right), who was willed $5,000,000, and Florence J. Loew (upper left), a granddaughter, who was left the famous Baker estate at Tuxedo, N. Y. Another daughter was willed $5,000,000. Although the famous banker's fortune had been estimated as high as $500,000,000, the shrinkage is explained by the fact that he transferred millions away to his son and philanthropies previous to his death.

Roberts, re-elected on a dripping wet platform which included the suggestion that barrels of corn whiskey be provided on every street corner, has set even blase Renov to the ears.

Junior Short Course
The annual 4-H club short course will be held this year at University Farm, June 9, 10, 11 and 12. June 9 will be registration day. Classes will begin on the morning of June 10.

The general plan of the short course will be very much the same as in previous years. One of the special features will be the leaders' training school for which all junior and adult leaders are eligible. The sports program begun last year will be continued as a special feature with the final event on Friday afternoon, June 12.

The evening programs will include general club features and movies. One evening will be devoted to the annual meeting of the State 4-H club association. Each county should select from among those attending the short course their representatives for the State 4-H club association board.

The Great Northern, Northern Pacific, Soo Line and the M. & St. L. railroads are co-operating by providing funds for a part of the expense of sending representatives from the counties in their respective territories, according to announcements made to the agents in the counties concerned.

Continue 4-H Support

For the past eight years the Minneapolis Journal has co-operated with the Extension Service in promoting 4-H boys' and girls' club work by providing a large number of educational trips and scholarships for club members making outstanding records in the livestock projects. The total fund each year has amounted to $5,000. It has been divided into three classes of awards; namely, 40 educational trips to the National Dairy Exposition for outstanding dairy calf members in the 40 counties making the best records in the dairy calf project; about 250 educational trips to the annual short course at University Farm for 4-H baby beef, swine, sheep and poultry members from each county; and the last class including five $100 scholarships to the winners in the dairy calf work and four $100 scholarships divided among the other four livestock projects mentioned above. These scholarships are good in the School of Agriculture or in the College of Agriculture.

These educational trips and scholarships provided by The Journal have served as wonderful incentives in the 4-H livestock work.

Announcements have just been made that The Journal will continue providing these awards during 1931.

Heirs to Baker Fortune

George F. Baker, noted financier, divided up the bulk of his $75,000,000 estate, which was much smaller than generally anticipated, among his son, George F. Baker, Jr. (lower left), who received approximately $60,000,000; his daughter, Mrs. William Goadby Loew (right), who was willed $5,000,000, and Florence J. Loew (upper left), a granddaughter, who was left the famous Baker estate at Tuxedo, N. Y. Another daughter was willed $5,000,000. Although the famous banker's fortune had been estimated as high as $500,000,000, the shrinkage is explained by the fact that he transferred millions away to his son and philanthropies previous to his death.

Roberts, re-elected on a dripping wet platform which included the suggestion that barrels of corn whiskey be provided on every street corner, has set even blase Reno by the ears.
